Rehabilitation Industrial

Grandvision, a multinational that represents the Multiópticas, GrandOptical and Solaris brands, joined up with Garcia, Garcia to implement its first manufacturing plant in Portugal.

This was a project calling for the refurbishment and adaptation of a vacant factory, which entailed best construction practices and met the functional and regulatory demands of the rehabilitation processes.

Keeping the features and the architecture of the façade of the building, the project included the development of interior structures, as well as all systems and installations required to support production, and also the administrative and social areas.

With an overall investment of about 7.3 million euros and the creation of approximately 90 jobs, this facility will have a production capacity of a million and a half prescription glasses, 80 per cent of which for export.
